Established in 1986, the Software and Information Industry Association (SIIA) CODiE Awards recognize excellence and achievement in the business technology and education technology industries. As the EdTech industry's only peer-reviewed awards program, tech-savvy educators from across the nation evaluate the nominated products and services to designate finalists. SIIA members then review the finalists in each category to select winners. The 2016 award winners will be announced Wednesday, May 18.
